Biographical note

Peter Andrews (1707-1756), was born November 20, 1707 in Egg Harbor, N.J. to Edward and Sarah Andrews. In 1728 he married Esther, daughter of Samuel and Silence Butcher. The couple had one daughter, Temperance Andrews, who died while Andrews was in England. In 1742 he was recommended for the ministry and was a minister for the last fourteen years of his life. Andrews was close friends with John Woolman, also a minister, and accompanied him on his first preaching tour to New England in 1747. During his travels in England, Andrews became ill and died at the house of John Oxley in Norwich, England on July 13, 1756 at the age of 49.
